

Table of contents

Foreword pages 9-12

■ Michelle Lenoir

Preface: Why this book had to be written pages 13-18

■ Hans Walter Lack

Preliminary notes pages 19-25

Chronological timeline pages 26-27

Introduction pages 29-41

PART ONE ■ pages 43-91

The formative years

The early years of the Redouté brothers pages 45-57 Saint-Hubert en Ardennes, 45 — The Redouté family, 47 — Pierre-Joseph's Wanderjahre, 50 — Pierre-Joseph's "Vierge pastourelle", 52 — Leaving for Paris, 56

Starting in Paris

pages 59-77 The first plant illustrations done for L'Héritier, 59 — Producing the Stirpes novae, 71 — The Jardin du roi in Paris, 74

Pierre-Joseph and L'Héritier in England

pages 79-91 London, 32 Soho Square, 79 — The Royal Garden at Kew, 82 — Pierre-Joseph in the herbarium of Sir Joseph Banks, 86

A multitude of projects

Pierre-Joseph back in Paris and engaged in several projects pages 95-151 L'Héritier's leaflets, 95 — A title for Pierre-Joseph?, 99 — Continuing L'Héritier's Stirpes novae, 103 — Plants and fungi on vellum and an early contact with Gérard Van Spaendonck, 105 — L'Héritier's new projects, 109 — A new commission: Labillardière's plants from the Levant, 119 — Pierre-Joseph and Henri-Joseph as illustrators of a new scientific journal, 123 — Illuminating a luxury copy of the Recueil des plantes gravées, 131 — Miscellaneous commissions for Henri-Joseph, 138 — Contributing to the Tableau encyclopédique et méthodique Botanique, 139 — Draughtsman at the Académie royale des sciences, 144 — A special moment for Pierre-Joseph or rather an apocryphal story?, 148

Pierre-Joseph and Henri-Joseph contribute to the Collection des vélins pages 153-209 A remarkable anomaly, 153 — The Collection des vélins, 160 — King Louis XV's rhinoceros, 163 — Botanical rarities and well-known plants on vellum, 168 — Fishes, reptiles and amphibians on vellum, 186 — Merits and demerits of the Collection des vélins, 193 — The Collection des vélins as a resource for the botanical community, 197 — Pierre-Joseph and Henri-Joseph exhibit in Paris, 200 — Contacts in the world of arts, 205

Pierre-Joseph and Henri-Joseph busy with several projects in Paris pages 211-245 Acquiring commissions, 211 — Pierre-Joseph's "new" printing technique, 212 — Pierre-Joseph's "new" engraving technique, 215 — Pierre-Joseph and Henri-Joseph contribute to Flora projects, 216 — 105 plates showing mollusk shells, 227 — The first global rescue operation, 230 — Labillardière's plants and their transfer from Batavia via London to Paris, 234 — Pierre-Joseph contributes to Labillardière's Atlas and the Novae Hollandiae plantarum specimen, 237

Pierre-Joseph paints succulents, milkvetches and poison arrow vines for Candolle pages 247-271 A student from Geneva in Paris, 247 — Succulent plants, 254 — Milkvetches, 265 — Poison arrow vines and other plants, 270

The great works

Pierre-Joseph's first great work - Les Liliacées pages 275-315 A follow-up project, 275 — Les Liliacées, 278 — Case stories, 283 — Mutual enrichment, observational errors and ripe fruits copied, 293 — Anomalies, archaisms and last-minute amendments, 296 — The work flow, 301 — Financing Les Liliacées, 305 — Disharmony over the title-page, 306 — In mid-life: Pierre-Joseph buys a summer house and garden, 309 — Continuing along the beaten track: Delaroche and Delile, 312

Pierre-Joseph's second great work - Traité des arbres

pages 317-337 In the shadow, 317 — A complex structure, 318 — Case stories: Chou chun, atkastanesi and Taupō kōwhai, 321 — Cultivars and repeats, 333 — The editors, 335 — Early fruit pieces, 336

Pierre-Joseph and Henri-Joseph in the nursery of Jacques Martin Cels pages 339-361 The Ventenat brothers, 339 — Henri-Joseph's drawings for the Tableau du règne végétal, 340 — The nursery of Jacques-Martin Cels, 346 — Pierre-Joseph and Henri-Joseph contribute to the Description des plantes nouvelles, 347 — Pierre-Joseph contributes to the Choix de plantes, 358

Henri-Joseph and the Description de l'Égypte

Henri-Joseph in Egypt

pages 365-379 A promising young general, 365 — The Commission des Sciences et des Arts, 366 — Henri-Joseph's diary, 368 — Henri-Joseph's itinerary, 370 — Henri-Joseph at the Institut d'Égypte, 373

Henri-Joseph contributes to the Description de l'Égypte

pages 381-415 No second burning of the library of Alexandria, 381 — A complex record — specimens, drawings and prints, 382 — A fungus from Egypt, 385 — Plants from Egypt, 386 — Animals from Egypt, 389 — Elephantiasis, 400 — Human remains from Egypt, 400 — Landscapes and architecture in Egypt, 402 — Artefacts from ancient Egypt, 403 — Varia, 411 — Back in Paris, 411 — Henri-Joseph's fragmentary biographical dictionary and other manuscript notes, 412

Josephine's garden at Malmaison, Les Roses and other projects

Malmaison: the contribution of Antoine-Ferdinand and Pierre-Joseph pages 419-473 Malmaison before Josephine, 419 — Josephine, 420 — Josephine and botany, 423 — Description of Malmaison in 1809, 425 — Decorating rooms in Malmaison, 427 — Decorating rooms in Compiègne, 436 — Representing plants in Malmaison, 440 — Case stories, 444 — Representing plants at Navarre, 456 — A second title for Pierre-Joseph, 463 — Baldassare Cattrani: Pierre-Joseph's competitor at Malmaison?, 469 — Malmaison after Josephine, 471

Pierre-Joseph, Henri-Joseph and the flora of North America pages 475-491 André and François-André Michaux in North America, 475 — The oaks of North America, 478 — The first Flora of North America, 481 — The trees and shrubs of North America, 485

Pierre-Joseph illustrates Rousseau pages 493-503 Jean-Jacques Rousseau and botany, 493 — Paris based editions, 495 — A special situation, 497 — Botanical terminology illustrated by Pierre-Joseph, 500 — The discrepancy between the title page and the content of the book, 502

The third great work - Les Roses

pages 505-541 The rose craze, 505 — Claude-Antoine Thory, 508 — Les Roses, 510 — Case stories, 515 — An interesting hypothesis, 531 — Later editions and variants, 532 — A sober end for the copper plates, 537 — A brilliant finale for the watercolours, 538

Minor projects of the Redouté brothers and Henri-Joseph's late years pages 543-569 Miscellaneous illustrations for books and journals, 543 — The grapes of the Jardin du Luxembourg in Paris, 550 — Miscellaneous fungi, a slime mold and the arctic starflower in the Ardennes, 554 — The Morgan Album in New York, 561 — Pierre-Joseph and the porcelain manufactory in Sèvres, 563 — Henri-Joseph's pomology, 564 — Henri-Joseph's late years, 567

Pierre-Joseph, a Paris celebrity

Pierre-Joseph as master of botanical iconography pages 573-585 A catastrophe and three disappointments, 573 — Pierre-Joseph's course in botanical iconography, 575 — Pierre-Joseph's pupils, 577 — The content of Pierre-Joseph's lessons, 582 — Two colouring books and two drawing books, 583

Pierre-Joseph's role as a Paris celebrity pages 587-611 Choix des plus belles fleurs, 587 — Pierre-Joseph's role as a Paris celebrity, 600 — Pierre-Joseph's summer months in Meudon, 606

Pierre-Joseph's flower pieces: an unending story pages 613-651 Pierre-Joseph's last decade, 613 — Illustrations of flower and fruit arrangements exhibited in Lille and Paris, 617 — The tip of the iceberg, 628 — The triumph of lithography, 634 — The army of Pierre-Joseph's printed bouquets, 637 — Charles Boivin's project to deceive his customers, 643 — Pierre-Joseph's last year, 646

Farewell

pages 653-665 Pierre-Joseph's funeral, 653 — The bureaucracy of a bereavement, 654 — The auction of Pierre-Joseph's collections, 655 — Posthumous exhibition, 657 — Obituaries, 659 — Posthumous publications, 661 — The end, 664

Pierre-Joseph and Henri-Joseph as seen in a larger context

The larger context pages 669-691 Pierre-Joseph, Henri-Joseph and other botanical illustrators in Paris, 669 — Plants painted from gardens in Tübingen, Venice, Paris and Turin, 672 — The scion of the Collection des vélins in Vienna, 674 — Franz Bauer. A move from Vienna to Kew — or more?, 679 — The scion of the Collection des vélins in Montpellier, 680 — The broader view, 683 — Pictorial evidence and the International Code of Nomenclature for Algae, Fungi and Plants, 684 — What the hell is quality?, 687

Further research

pages 693-705 Antoine-Ferdinand, 693 — Henri-Joseph, 694 — Pierre-Joseph, 696 — Collaboration with engravers and printers, 698 — The unsurpassable quartet, 701 — Pirating Pierre-Joseph, 702 — Heretical questions, 704

Epilogue pages 707-713

Acknowledgements pages 715-717

Appendices pages 719-741

Appendix 1 - Annotated bibliography of publications to which Pierre-Joseph Redouté has contributed illustrations, 719 — Appendix 2 - Bibliography of publications to which Henri-Joseph Redouté has contributed illustrations, 727 — Appendix 3 - List of still-lifes by Pierre-Joseph and Henri-Joseph Redouté exhibited in the Salon de Correspondance and the Salon de Paris, 731 — Appendix 4 - Henri-Joseph in Egypt, 732 — Appendix 5 - Pierre-Joseph's introductory text to his Choix des plus belles fleurs, 739 — Appendix 6 - List of publications accompanying exhibitions dedicated to Pierre-Joseph and Henri-Joseph Redouté, 741

Catalogues raisonnés pages 743-745

Preliminary catalogue raisonné of the works by Pierre-Joseph Redouté, 743 — Preliminary catalogue raisonné of the works by Henri-Joseph Redouté, 745

Unpublished text sources page 747

References pages 749-782

Illustrations pages 783-792

Index pages 793-816

General index, 793 — Index of books, journals and manuscripts, 795 — Index of persons, 799 — Index of place names, 807 — Index of plant, algal, fungal and animal names, 811